

EARN YOUR DEGREE IN EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION OR CHILDHOOD EDUCATION AT MONROE UNIVERSITY

All your life, you've been told that children are our future. With a degree in Early Childhood Education or Childhood Education, they can be your future, too.

At Monroe University's nationally recognized School of Education, you'll learn from an experienced faculty of educators and scholars.* You'll also complete 180 hours of fieldwork in educational settings and two semesters of student teaching (a minimum of 200 hours each semester). From your very first day, you'll take what you learn in theory and put it into practice.

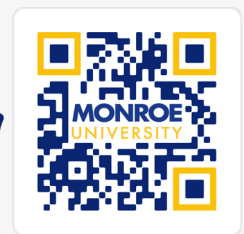

Monroe has partnered with the New York State Education Department's Teacher Opportunity Corps II (TOC II) to provide qualified, diverse candidates with a Teaching Professions Scholarship – meaning you may have the opportunity to earn your bachelor's degree with no out-of-pocket tuition costs, regardless of income.*

Interested in learning more?

Please contact Professor Susie Metscher-Mosher, PhD,
Clinical Supervisor, Chair, School of Education
smetscher@monroeu.edu • 646.393.8365

* Recognized for excellence in educator preparation programs by the Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP), a prestigious acknowledgement of the program's quality and outcomes.

 TOC II candidates must be New York State residents who want to pursue teaching in New York State.

Apply Now

MONROE UNIVERSITY

www.monroeu.edu